Parties serving electronically shall send the specified documents to each and every e-mail address identified above. Only parties who have consented to accept e-mail service may serve via e-mail.

Service by electronic means is complete on transmission when made prior to 5:00 pm on a judicial day. No service shall be by facsimile. Service made on a Saturday, Sunday, holiday, or after 5:00 pm on any other day shall be deemed complete at 9:00 am on the first judicial day thereafter. (Service by other consented means is complete when the person making service delivers the copy to “the agency designated to make delivery.”) Service is effective despite an “out-of-office” reply e-mail. But e-mail service is not effective if the serving party receives an error message indicating the e-mail wasn’t successfully received (e.g., “user unknown,” “connection timed out,” or “message could not be delivered”) prior to expiration of the service deadline, and the party making service has the ability to rectify the problem.

A single e-mail shall not include attachments that combined exceed 10 MB in size. If a document exceeds 10 MB, parties shall provide a link to download it from an online repository or serve by alternative means (i.e., mail or hand delivery).

Parties must file proof of service with the court whenever required by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Proof of service by e-mail shall be by declaration or affidavit by the sender attesting to the electronic service.

This stipulation constitutes each party's consent to be served by electronic means as indicated. Any party may revoke this consent by serving all other parties by traditional means under Fed. R. Civ. P. 5(b)(1) and 5(b)(2) with notice that the party no longer consents to electronic service.

Nothing in this stipulation shall preclude a party from serving another party by traditional means as described in Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.

This stipulation does not apply to original service of process.
